Portuguese innovation in NewEngland coastal tradition

Tuesday, June 23 @ 7pm

Around the turn of the century, large groups of Portuguese immigrants settled on the East Coast, many in the Cape Cod area. They sought the numerous fishing and factory jobs available there. With them, they brought their language, seafaring traditions and recipes, which centered on the marine harvest.

James Beard-nominated Chef Alex Young will craft a menu, which explores traditional Portuguese recipes, that were combined with the ingredients available to them in their new homes along the New England coastline.
